PROLOGUE

"All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players. They have their exits and their entrances and each man in his day plays many parts." Because of its reality, that famous quotation of Shakespeare's will linger long in our memories. Co-Lin is the world in which we live; the students and the faculty are the actors on its stage. Every student and teacher is an integral part of the pattern of life here, and each act of theirs contributes something toward the molding of future successes. Every act on our stage reflects something of the character and personality of the individual. Yes, we, too, have our exits and our entrances and each one in his day plays many parts. Shall we so play those parts that we shall afterwards be remembered for our inspirational influence, nobility of ideals, and praiseworthy record? The challenge is ours! Shall we accept it?

If we have in some tangible form given to you "life at Co-Lin," so that you will take with you wherever you may go, pleasant memories; then the foremost aim of this book will have been accomplished.

DEDICATION

It is with a great deal of pride that we dedicate the 1942 Co-Lin Trillium to Miss Virginia Felder, who, because of her sincere devotion to this institution and her Christian ideals and influence, has won a place in the hearts of many.

"LEARNING HAS ITS VALUE"

THE DIR

THE PRESIDENT

The Sophomores of 1942 have contributed much to the life and traditions of Copiah-Lincoln. Your pathway in future years is not likely to lead over the route you planned when you entered college. The privilege of obtaining a college education is enjoyed by comparatively few people. As you accept this privilege you should ever be cognizant of your added responsibilities.

Free Americans will perpetuate the ideal of public education. During these most trying times we must stand ready to defend with our very lives those higher and nobler ideals of freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom from want, and freedom from fear. Many of us will not be called upon to die for these ideals but they will never be actually realized until we as a Nation learn to live for them.

You and thousands of other college students are going out into a world at war. You have a great responsibility in helping to win the war. You will have an equally great responsibility in the execution of the Peace that must follow.

May your pathway always be lighted by an abiding Faith in an all Powerful Providence. I challenge you to a life of service.

Very sincerely,

J. M. EWING.

Co-Lin Merry Go Round

UPON ARISING

Life in a dormitory begins. In a room in a dormitory things happen—the beginning of a series of events composing what is called a day. At six-twenty in the morning roommates begin drowsily coaxing one another to get out of bed, and by six-twenty-five the extended toe has developed into several groggily groping figures. The developments from here on are rapid. Yawns and mutterings become intelligible words. By the combined revelations of the three, it is known that one snored, one talked in her sleep, and one was nearly blown out of bed by the cold, fierce winds.

"What am I going to wear", comes from the figure peering in the closet. This is closely followed by a soliloquy entitled "No Clothes" and proves that the recently discovered voice is capable of expressing emotion. The spell of early morning has been lifted, the day has begun.

UP AT FOUR

Have you ever been awake or up at 4 o'clock in the morning? Everything is usually as quiet as can be and when something does make a noise, it makes a terrific sound.

This morning I arose from my bed at the stroke of four. It was rather chilly, and I would have liked the best in the world to turn over and go back to sleep but something in the back of my mind made me arise for I knew that if I did not, today I would suffer the consequences.

I got my books and a quilt, therefore, and went out into the hall to study, and study I did. I had to search diligently to find the few scraps of material which I had. Nor was I made any easier by the creaking, popping, voices which I frequently heard.

Two hours after my sleepy journey into the hall I gathered my books together and staggered sleepily back to bed, not to arise again, until the bugle sounded forth its cheery peals.

A DOG IN THE DORMITORY

Saturday night after the show J. O. Warren was in his room preparing to retire. A dog came in through the open door. J. O. decided he would have some fun by taking the dog down to the next room. He began petting the dog so he could coax him more easily.

Suddenly the dog began acting strangely. It would fall over against the wall and then begin to whine. J. O., becoming alarmed at the actions of the dog, grabbed a broom and started pushing the dog out of the room. "Get out of here, dog!" J. O. yelled, getting more frightened all the time. "You'd better get out of here."

J. O. finally got the dog out of the room, and it went on around the wing to John Cotten's room and had a hard fit. A small congregation of boys were gathered there watching the dog when Prentiss Davis stuck his head out of the door and barked like a dog. Every spectator at the dog fit broke and ran trying to get out of the way. Mr. Ward, who was checking up, came to the rescue of the dog, ran to the room and shut the door on the scene of misery.

Quiet once more reigned in the dormitory.

OUR LAUNDRY SYSTEM

Just try to imagine Harvey Fitzpatrick in Tubby Kirkland's pants, or worse than that, wearing a shirt with only a couple of buttons on it and the button holes about one and one-half inches long.

With all faith and hope I send my best socks to the laundry and what do I get back? Nothing but a couple of heels! If the tail of my shirt happens to be folded over the collar, when the ironer gets it, that is the way it gets pressed. One side is starched; the other side is gone.

The more clothes I send the less I get back, but what do I care for it will soon be summer. Then I won't need many.

STILL—NOTHING GAINED

Tick-tock, tick-tock, tick-tock, tick-tock, tick-tock. My eyes searched the sky, the room, valleys and hills. There were so many, yet so few topics for the "daily two."

I looked up in the sky. Now, I could write about how blue the sky is, or, I could tell how the sun is beating back the negroes with its flashing sword. I guess I could describe that flower standing yonder on the green hill. I might even write about the grass by telling why it is so green.

There are several objects in any room that might be written about, if I were in the right mood. There is a word I could write about—mood! I might write about what my mind is doing now—rambling.

There! There's something I can write about, but who's interested in reading a dry description of a little black dog?

I can imagine all sorts of things that might have caused those gullys back of the dormitory, but who can't do that?

Tick-tock, time is passing rapidly, I'd better hurry. But I haven't made up my mind yet! What am I going to write about? Tick-tock, Tick-tock. What will be the topics for my "daily two?"

REGISTRATION DAY

Today is the day when millions of young men between the ages of 20 and 45 will register for the army of the United States. Today many boys will leave home, maybe on a one way ticket, to the Far East. Today many young boys will quit school; others will leave their jobs, their families, and their homes to serve their country.

War is a dreadful thing, but we are in it and we must do something toward the future security of our country. It's dreadful to think of the boys, boys in the bloom of life, boys who have got a good start, boys who are striving to receive an education, boys who will have to give up all they have so as to insure their country's safety. But there are things more dreadful. Nazism! Hirohitoism!

I hope the next draft is lowered to 18. We Americans must wake up and do something. Friday, Singapore fell. Will we stand by and see our allied countries defeated by the Nazi powers? No! We are going to stop them. Today, Registration Day, is another step toward this goal.

JUST CAUSE

You could tell he was excited by the way he paced up and down the building. He would sit down and try to read a magazine for a little while, but he was too nervous for that. He would go to the window and count the cars that passed by. Oh, why does that telephone have to ring every five minutes? They must think he is a human recording machine.

They drop in to see him a minute, and forget the minute part. They are going at last! And it is about time they were. He gets his hat and leaves, for he can stand the suspense no longer. The quicker the cab gets there the better. He dashes impatiently into the waiting room.

There comes the doctor, just as calm as if nothing had happened. The doctor breaks the news to him just as easily as possible. I had made my appearance in this old world. Thus a new era in history began.

SPRING

No more sleet, snow, and cold rain,
Cows lowing, and shivering in pain,
Bright sunshine, and happy hours,
Small green plants, and pretty flowers.

Lightning, thunder, hail storms, and wind,
Old Mother Nature will send,
While we think just of the flowers,
And the warm April showers.

Spring, as well as, the other seasons,
Has her trials--for this reason:
Why do we long so for spring,
As we do for the right bell to ring?

It is because we want a change,
Any Mother Nature might arrange,
So in life we will always be
Wanting change to set us from monotony free.

CASEY JONES

Casey Jones was born in Eddiceton, a small town in Franklin County, in 1920. His mother was a teacher in a small two-room school house. When Casey was only one year old, he stuck a safety pin in one of the neighbor's children. This is only one small incident to show how rough he was from childhood on.

When he was only five years old his mother moved to a logging camp, and here he met Winston Smith Walker, later to become a famous warbler. There was fierce animosity between Casey and Wincie at the first meeting, and in two hours they were in a fierce struggle.

Casey's mother soon became worried about his health and moved from the logging camp to a farm. Here Casey went through the trifling experiences of letting a bull run him through with one of his horns, a horse throw him, and a couple of snakes bite him. But Casey was tough and soon overcame these difficulties.

After reaching the mature age of twenty, Casey decided he needed a smattering of education and he entered Copiah-Lincoln. Here he resumed his acquaintance with Wincie Smith Walker, and they are still fighting. Wonder what they are going to do in the war?

MONDAY

There is certainly no other day like Monday. The first bugle every morning finds every person, except the bugler, asleep and then he immediately crawls back in to get another snooze. At the first breakfast bell, several persons get out of bed and make a few hasty preparations, but at the last bell, many are still sleeping soundly.

After breakfast almost everyone gets up and gets ready for the first period class. The ones who have classes during the first hour usually sleep through it, and if there happens to be a test, they weep through it. After dinner every one is again full of pep and there are some pretty decent classes.

Band practice is very poor and the Prof. gets kind of roused up and in a pretty bad temper. Physical education is slow and all are glad when it is over. After supper every one relaxes for a while and gets to studying. At about eight-thirty practically everyone is asleep until study hall is over. Every one then makes the necessary preparations for the night's rest. When the last bugle blows, the last words that can be heard are, "Well, one more Monday is over, thank goodness."

"Yes, zz--zz--zzz--z-z-z."

HOW TO BE AN ENGINEER

Just like a mule, I came to school
With hopes so dear, wanting to be an engineer.
Miss Felder, by hit and miss, said, "You take that and you take this Sending me here and there, as if I didn't have a care.
First, came Mr. S. T. L., who, before the sound of the bell,
Said my future position should be anti-politician.
Then, we assembled with Mr. Mac., and to the class he made this crack,
"If you want it tough, I'll make it rough."
But speaking of the hard, I'll tell you pard,
Before going to Miss Felder, be a soldier or welder.
When I thought you were a sop, you gave my hopes a mighty flop.
Oh! In Education one-five-one, didn't you have fun?
And last but not least, before I decease
Let me tell why I saw all my griefs and my woe.
Miss Lindsey said, "Class, if you desire to pass.
Write six themes a week, be ye bold or meek."
A theme a day, a theme a day, while all the other boys do play!
But let me add, they say an engineer gets darn good pay.

IT DID HAPPEN HERE

Each year of our lives there are important events. These events may be heralded with a fanfare of trumpets, an outburst of oratory, or merely preceded by hours of drudging hard work. No matter how they come, nor what they cost in the way of personal effort, we feel they bring benefits to the Copiah-Lincoln student body that warrant their continuance.

The Football Season, remember the final game?

The Junior College Debate Contest, Charles Leggett, Gene Ramsey, Mayes McGehee, Sidney Turner spoke well, thanks to Miss Murry and Mr. Pearce.

The Basketball Season, tournament or no tournament.

The Literary Examinations, the best minds of the school were put forward.

The Platform Events, we were proud of our entries.

The State Track Meet, we hope we win.

Commencement Week, two by two we go marching down, graduates on parade.

"THE BLUE AND THE GREY"

Co-Lin was shy of veteran football material this season as she only had three letter men to return. Taking this into consideration and studying the outcome of games played, it was not a bad season by any means. This was Coach "Farmer" Johnson's second year to tutor the Wesson eleven. Again the Wesson mentor's strong determination brought the Wolfpack to second place in the conference. This determination and initiative will bring Co-Lin the coveted championship next fall.

The first game of the year was a close tilt, with the Southeastern Reserves leaving with a bare 7 to 6 victory. The Pack then invaded the lair of Northeast Center at Monroe with the strong Louisiana team nosing out the Wolves 13 to 6. The next contest was the first conference game and was played with Scooba. This game was taken by the Wolves 13 to 0. The annual grudge game with Decatur was played at Decatur with the hard fighting Pack being downed 13 to 0. Poplarville was engaged and a good game was witnessed by all as the score was tied 13 to 13. The boys promptly trounced Perkinston at Perkinston 51 to 6. In a muddy and rainy Homecoming, Moorhead battled the Wolves to a 0 to 0 tie. Winning because of extra points converted, the Wolves defeated Goodman 14 to 12. The game with Summit was a free scoring tilt for Wesson as they crushed the Pilots 53 to 0. The last game of the season was with Raymond who the year before had knocked Wesson's championship hopes sky-high. It was a different tune altogether this year as Wesson whipped them 6 to 0. The season held many glorious victories but not enough and we all hope for better luck next time.

WHO'S WHO IN REAL LIFE

SCENES IN PREMIER

SCENE II

FRESHMAN DAY

Happiness, personified.

Natchez at its best.

Latest styles, girls, please note.

How do you think I look?

Roomies, for a while.

The "artist" and the "Porter."

Introducing King Fitzpatrick and his lovely Queen.

All but her better half.

"Old gal, let's pitch a little woo."

Couldn't be "Dogpatch" could it?

Off for Hogchain and places unknown.

Ah, my lovely one!

Who said, "It can't happen here."

Oh, I won't be home until morning--.

The pause that refreshes.

I N ACTION

They told Coach they were crippled.

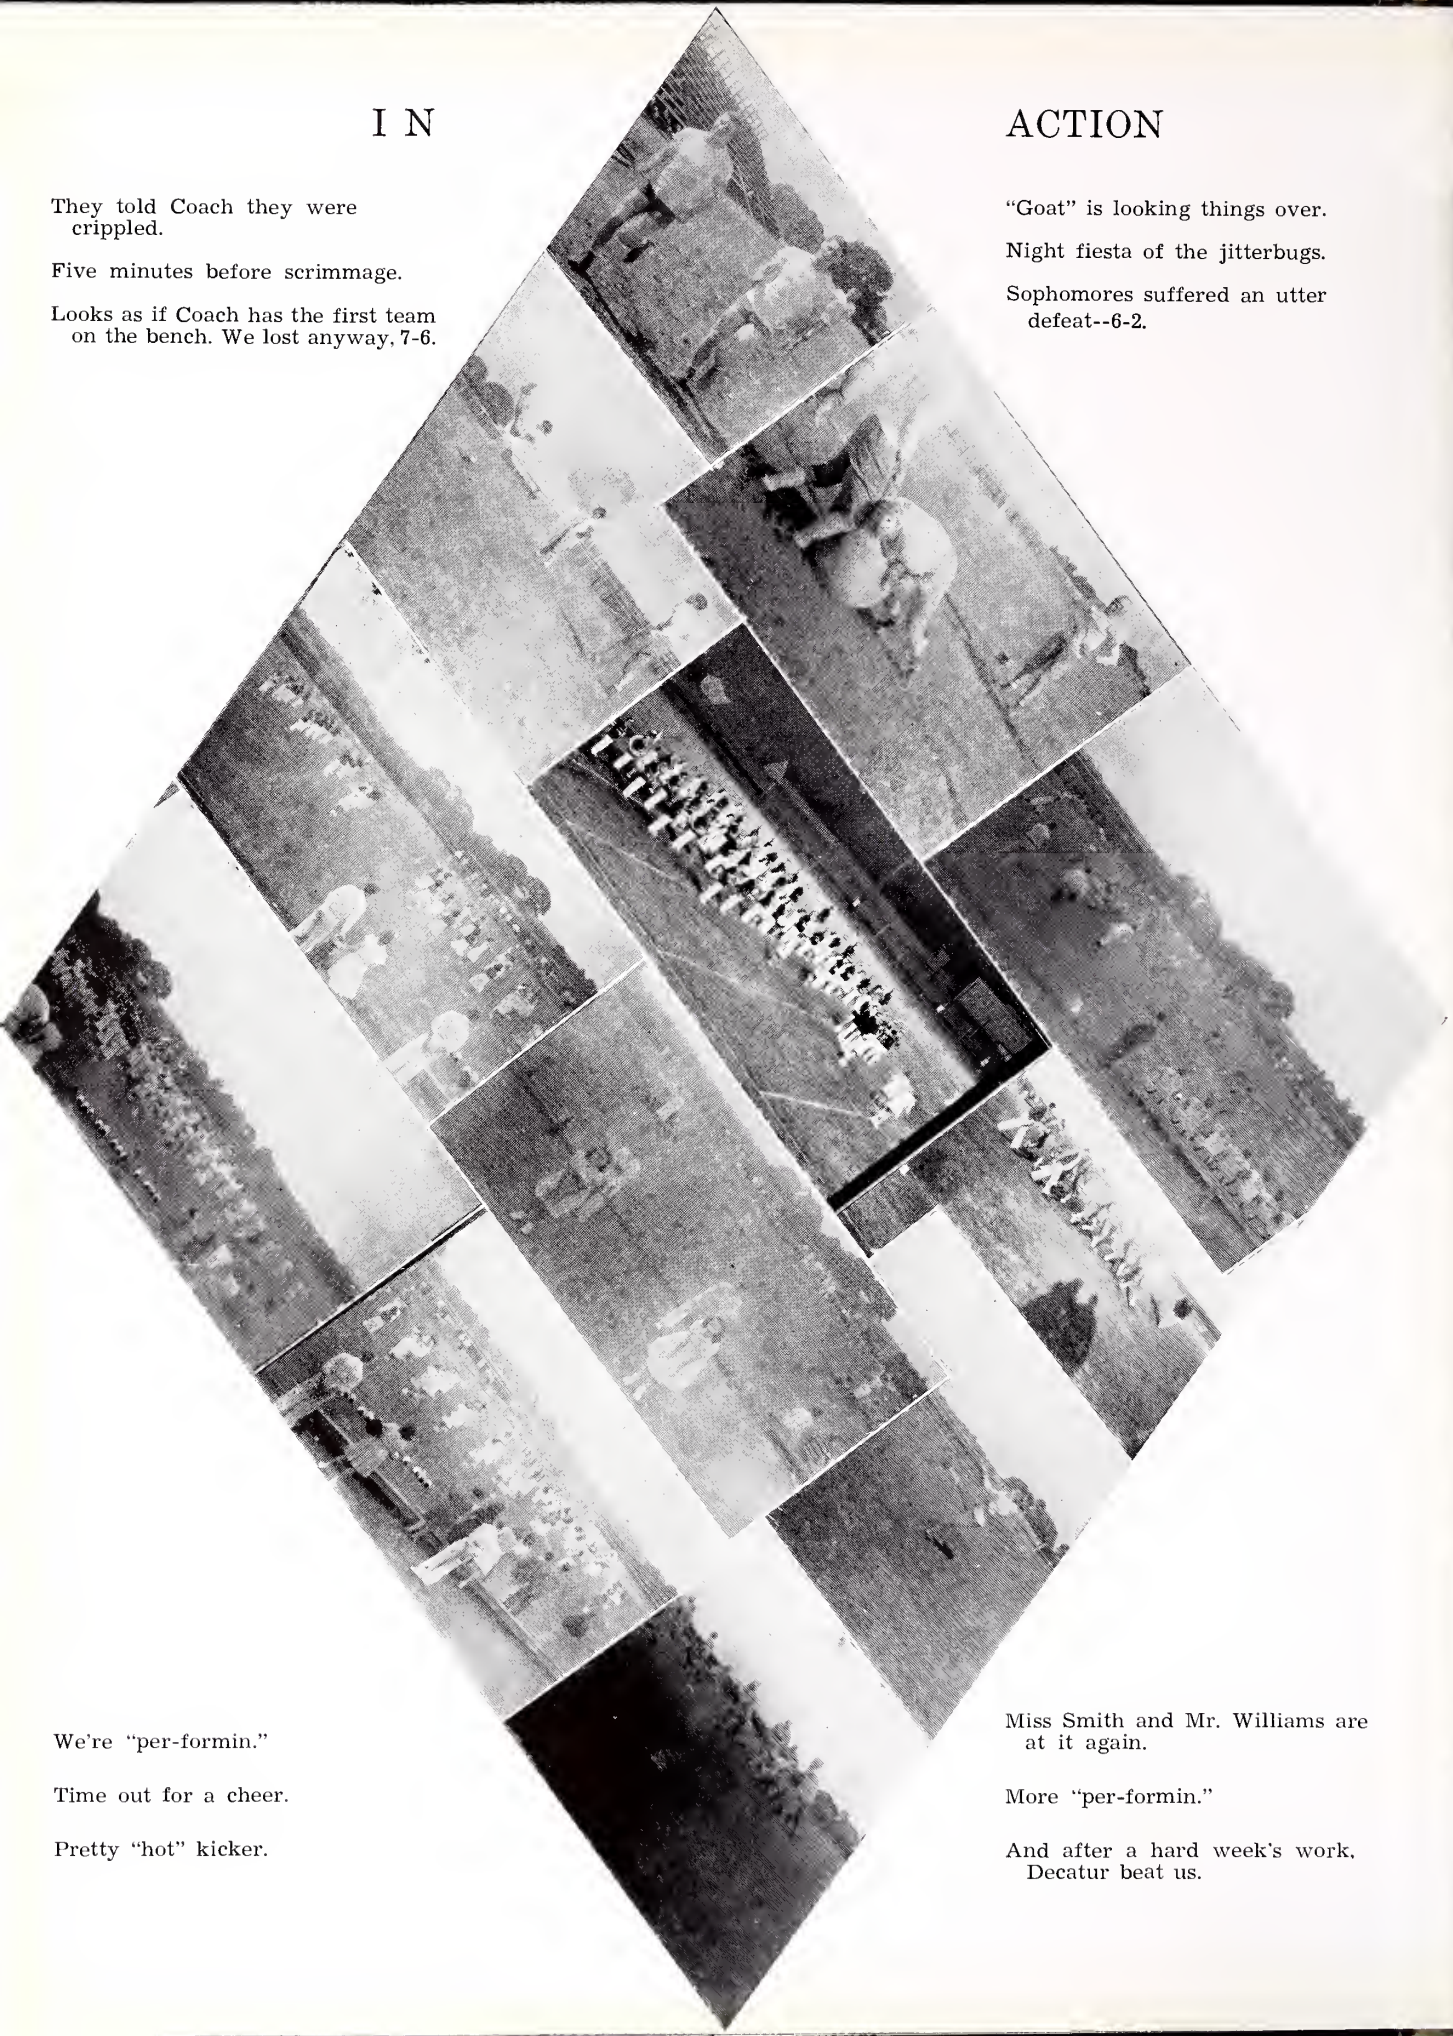
Five minutes before scrimmage.

Looks as if Coach has the first team on the bench. We lost anyway, 7-6.

"Goat" is looking things over.

Night fiesta of the jitterbugs.

Sophomores suffered an utter defeat--6-2.



We're "per-formin."

Time out for a cheer.

Pretty "hot" kicker.

Miss Smith and Mr. Williams are at it again.

More "per-formin."

And after a hard week's work, Decatur beat us.

Our 56-0 victory over Summit.

Cheerleaders--

JIMMY ALLRED
MARTHA THOMPSON
ED SMITH, JR.

A tie with Poplarville.

CAMPUS

It seems to be a habit.

Fried chicken? "Gimme a bite."

The whole of "216."

Hi, Jo! Who're you waiting for?

PERSONALITIES

"Ah, sweet mystery of life."

Strut your stuff.

Well, who would have thought it?

"I wonder who's kissing her now."

"A familiar sight."

Wonder who the smile's for?

O. K., we're ready--take the picture.

Wait for me!

He's just a bookstore "cowboy."

There they are again.

Good evening, Mr. Burt, how're you?

Just one more step, Susan.

REAL LIFE

It's a sad moment.

"Milady's boudoir."

Three "Dots."

"Hey, Lip, is the bookstore open?"

It's the bread line.

Couldn't be a midnight feast, could it?

If you'll look closely, you'll see "214."

Come on out, Pitts.

Oh, me . . . This exam is "arful."

"T'aint funny, Magee."

"Any Bonds Today."

Men wanted.

Just a moment, please.

Are they in "cahoots?"

"The stags at eve."

What is the center of attraction--
An annual perhaps?

EPILOGUE

"Today well-lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope." So often we as college students, fail to realize the significance of that philosophy of life. If only we would take what yesterday has given to us and establish that into our consciousness, character, and memory, our fears for tomorrow would vanish.

Does time frighten you? Have you all your life raced against time, defied time, gone down under it? Why, after all, what is time but today, lovely, mysterious, and unexplored! We miss so much in life, because we're so busy with troubles and yesterday and tomorrow that we let the good pass by unseen.

Let us resolve to live each day with all the happiness, responsiveness, and courage that is in us. Let us place our burdens resolutely upon our shoulders. Let us face determinedly forward. May each one of us as students of this college say to himself: "The torch has been handed to me to carry forward. I must not fail." Isn't that as much as we need to know about the future?

With our country at war, every ounce of effort must be thrown into the balance to bring victory. American resources, American industry, and American manhood are dedicated to the cause. Whatever it takes to win, every good citizen will willingly give.

On the battle line of Production, United Gas Service, providing a dependable fuel supply to war industries, is helping to make ships and guns and shells.

On the home front, too, United Gas Service brings the comfort and freedom that plays a vital part in making possible better living.

Thus United Gas Service is serving not only in making adequate fuel available for war purposes, but also in helping to sustain the home itself, which is the true foundation of morale.

WINNING
the
WAR
Comes First!

ON THE FARM—in store, office, factory—in the home—and in the electric business—the Number One job is WINNING THE WAR.

Mississippi Power & Light Services have a first line job to do, in winning the war. Service to defense industries, army camps and other war projects naturally comes first. Many essential war materials, also vital to utility services, such as copper, steel, aluminum and other similar items, will cause extensions of utility services, for other than war purposes, to be greatly restricted if not entirely discontinued.

When we began the Photographic Work for the 1942 Trillium our aim was to make an outstanding group of Photographs that would be a credit to this book and to ourselves.

With the fine cooperation of the '42 Staff, the Faculty, and the Student Body, we feel we have achieved this result.
